INTRODUCTION.

This book is the outgrowth of a boy's attempt—many years ago—to learn something about his ancestors. In tracing his own line back to Sergeant Thomas Canfield, the Puritan, there was developed a desire, to learn something of the kinship that existed between the many family groups that were found in New Jersey. It soon became evident, that some of the groups, although living side by side, and in some instances in the same house, were related in only a very remote degree. As all were not descendants of Sergeant Thomas, it was necessary to examine, and to partly arrange, the genealogy of the line of Mr. Matthew Canfield, the traditional brother of Sergeant Thomas. Having gone thus far, it seemed a pity to let such data be wasted, for want of a little more exertion; and so this work has grown, from what was originally intended to be a small chart, to its present form and size.

This task was not commenced a minute too soon, as the last traces of tradition, necessary in several instances to enable the compiler to classify and fasten the many isolated names on the proper branches of the family tree, were memories in the possession of elderly people, nearly all of whom have passed away. In some families the lack of records and tradition, as to events and dates, at one time formed a cloud so dense, that it seemed to be impenetrable, but gradually as one fact after another was placed in its proper position, the atmosphere became clear and the task easier.

It is a pleasure to record that, while a few individuals were indifferent, there was but one family that displayed a positive objection to this genealogy. Fortunately this family could not withhold the records of its ancestors, who formed a distinguished and honorable line of descent for seven generations.

It is usual in compiling genealogies or family trees to pay but little attention to the descendants of the daughters. This saves labor, but it is hardly just. Their children have the blood of their ancestors, in an equal degree with those of the male line, even if the family name has been changed. In the present work an attempt has been made to give all the descendants down to, and including, the eighth generation. That this has not been done in every case, is due to the lack of the necessary data ; a few families in the fifth generation have been dropped for this reason.

In describing the individual members, care has been taken to avoid all allusions or statements that would cause pain to any living relative or connection. Nothing has been said about their religious convictions, their political faith, their private life, or of the causes of their death,—excepting accidents,—because the only persons who have a right to know of these facts possess the best sources of information. It may be said generally that prior to 1800 they were Presbyterians or Congregationalists ; that prior to 1775 they were loyal to the crown of Great Britain ; but after that date they were patriots in the full sense of the word, as many proved by their deeds. Short descriptions of the outsiders who have married into the family are given, in order that they may be more completely identified by their descendants.

It has been calculated that, during the period 1620–1640, upwards of 22,000 Puritans and Independents (the figures have been placed as high as 50,000, showing that no exact record was kept) came to New England from English and Dutch ports. Those from the latter being Independents who had previously fled from England to Holland, to escape religious persecution.

It is obvious that it would be futile to attempt to locate the homes from which this throng started. In comparatively few cases the record or tradition has been preserved, but with a vast majority of these pilgrims, it is impossible to ascertain even the names of the counties from which they came. Judging from the names they gave to their towns in New England, they came from all the counties in England. We have no knowledge of the habitat of our ancestors, beyond the fact that they were English. Tradition says they were brothers.

It has been claimed that they came from Yorkshire, because the family name (Canfield) was found in that county, but it also existed in Hertfordshire and—as the name of a place—in Essex County, and—as Camfield—in Hertfordshire, Lancaster, Norfolk and Middlesex, and for all we know in other counties.

There is a tradition that our ancestors, Thomas and Matthew, with their brother Nathaniel, landed at Plymouth, Mass., and then made their way overland to Connecticut. The American family has descended from these three brothers. But little is known about Nathaniel, who was in Norwalk in 1670, where he had a home lot of five acres, and as his line is not represented in New Jersey, nothing more need be said about him.

Matthew Camfield¹ was probably in New Haven as early as 1639. He lived there until 1652, when he went to Norwalk. He removed from Norwalk to Newark, New Jersey, in 1666 with the colony that founded that place, and died there in 1673. His four sons, Ebenezer², Samuel², Matthew² and Jonathan² were with him in Newark. Samuel² returned to Norwalk about 1669. Jonathan² died without issue.

Thomas Canfield¹ is probably the man whose signature to the "Oath of Fidelity" to the New Haven Colony in 1639, is recorded as "Tho. Coefield." He was granted a house lot in Milford—10 miles from New Haven—in 1646, and died there in 1688 or 89. His son Thomas² died in Milford, at the age of 35, leaving several children, one of whom was Israel³, who, disposing of his interest in his father's estate to his brother Thomas in 1713, left soon after for Newark, N. J., where his name is said to have been found on a jury list dated 1715. After giving as full a description as possible of Matthew Camfield¹ and Thomas Canfield¹, and of their descendants to the third generation, this genealogy will be confined to the descendants of Israel Canfield³ and to those of Ebenezer² and Matthew² Camfield, as it is intended to include only the New Jersey stock, not the entire family in America.

THE NAME.

I. IN ENGLAND.

It would be a waste of time to attempt to ascertain the origin of our names by an analysis of their present meanings. Their numerous forms lead us into a maze of interpretations, each of which will satisfy the various spellings. It is easy to say that "Campfield" means the "field of the camp," "Camfield" means the "field on the river Cam," and "Canfield" the "field on the river Can." This line of investigation is pleasing and easy, but it is worse than useless, it breeds error. We shall see that in America, the name "Canfield" has been derived from both Campfield and Camfield. We shall also see that the name Campfield has been derived from Camfield. The meaning of a name that has been modified has no significance, unless its original form can be ascertained. We must go back to the oldest form attainable and interpret it in the language of the period in which we find it. Our ancestors were English, so to England we must go to trace our names.

The task of tracing an English family name to its places of origin—for there may be several—is exceedingly difficult in England, and almost impossible in America. All that can be done is to furnish the few items of interest that may be gleaned from the published copies of the baptismal, marriage and burial records, from the genealogies of other families, and from the histories of the towns, parishes, and counties in England.

Surnames were not used in England prior to the year 1050 and they did not get into general use until 1300. Almost all English surnames have been derived from some condition that was peculiar to the man who first acquired them; as of race, nationality, rank, place, trade, color, personal character or physical condition, etc. The second syllable of our name—feld, feild or field—however modified in spelling—indicates that it is one of place, and shows, in the forms given below, meanings that are easily understood. Camp grounds were common in England. A man named Thomas, living on the site of one of these places, would become identified with it, as “Thomas of the camp” or “camp-field,” which would soon be shortened to “Tom Campfield.” Unfortunately the earlier forms of our name do not sustain this easy interpretation. The form “Campfield” has not been found by the compiler in any old English book nor upon any English map. The only evidence that it is of English origin is based upon the following facts. 1st. It is now used in England. 2d. Upon the roots of the family tree, designed and executed by the late Averill B. Canfield, of South Britain, Conn.—a monument to his memory, patience and zeal—are the following statements.

“James De Philo a French Huguenot & citizen of Normandy, France, in the 14th Century. In reward for meritorious services to the Crown of England, received honorable mention and a new cognomen, and a grant of land on the River ‘Cam,’ county of Yorkshire, England. (See English Encyclopedia.)”

Also—

“James De Philo of Normandy, France became a loyal subject of the Crown in the 14th century. He received cognomen of Cam to De Philo in distinction of land grant. Changes of Nomen, England 14th Century, ‘Cam-philo’ later ‘Camphilo,’ at New Haven, Ct. 1639 ‘Campfield,’ later, Milford, Ct.

1680, 'Camfield,' later, Milford, Ct. 1720 'Canfield.' (See English Encyclopedia, New Haven & Milford, Church & Town records; New Haven Probate records.)"

This account of the settlement of the Huguenot James de Philo, on the River "Cam" in Yorkshire, has frequently been brought to the attention of the compiler by proud descendants (?), and by professors of heraldry in search of a commission, but when their attention was called to the fact that there is no River "Cam" in Yorkshire, and to the fact that there were no Huguenots until two hundred years after the grant of land was made to James de Philo, the subject was dropped.

Assuming that there was a mistake in the dates, but that James de Philo was a Huguenot, he must have lived as late as 1550. If he lived on the real River "Cam" and modified his cognomen as stated, his descendants soon changed it, because it is on record that one Richard Canfeild of Hertfordshire, in 1588, contributed £25 to the defence of his country.

If James de Philo was a true Huguenot he should have staid in France until his sect was conquered in 1628. It was dishonorable for him to desert his cause and take service under a foreign king. The compiler has been unable to find the Encyclopædia that contains this story.

In none of the books on early English history, that have been examined in this research, has any name been found that bears the slightest resemblance to "de Philo," or to "Camphilo."

The following extracts from local English histories have a special interest, as they tend to show how two of the forms of our name have been developed independently: and even if it is impossible, at the present time, to locate the English homes of our ancestors, and thus make use of this information, the time may come when some clue will lead us to the right spot. All obtainable data that pertain to the family, and that are older than the migration of the Puritans, will be given below.

The Parish of TUNSTALL* comprehends the townships of TUNSTALL,—CANTSFIELD—LECK—NETHER BURROW, and OVERBURROW.

CANTSFIELD.—Thurland Castle, the foundation of sir Thomas Tunstall, who obtained permission from Henry IV., to fortify and kernell it, then newly erected, stands in Cantsfield, on a slightly elevated site, which rises from a monotonary flat, bounded on the south by the Greta and on the north by the Cant. It encloses an irregular angular court, which is approached through a gateway, on the west. The wings, towers, and battlements, surrounded by a deep circular moat, give it a fortress-like aspect. The defences enabled it to sustain a long and obstinate siege, which left it a ruin, during the civil wars. The account of this siege as given by Colonel Rigby in his despatch to the speaker of the house of commons dated from Preston, on the 17th October, 1643, is curious and characteristic. The name of this castle and manor of which the descent has been already described, occurs as Thurgoland, Thorsland, Thursland, and Fryrreland, for Tyrreland by Leland, who designates it "An ancient castle or manor-place of stone of the Tonstalls." It is evidently the land of Thor, or Tor, a Saxon proprietor. The erection of the modern buildings, about the castle, in a style corresponding with that edifice, was commenced about twenty-three years ago, and the south wing was built about 1826-7. Cantsfield with Farlton was held by Hugh de Morwyc, of William de Lancaster; and Adam de Montebegon gave to Geoffrey de Valons 6 carucates in these townships, to be held by knight service. Cantsfield had, therefore, been alienated at that time from the fee of Lancaster, and annexed to Hornby, where it is named among the places granted, in 11 Henry III., to Hugh de Burgh, the chief justice. It gave name to an ancient family, whose heiress, married one of the Harringtons of Aldingham; and was in possession of the Tunstalls in the reign of Edward III. The act of resumption, passed 7 and 8 Edward IV., confirmed letters patent granted to John Tunstall, apparently uncle of sir Richard, "of the manor of Lek, with th' appurtenaunce in the Counte of Lancastr, xvj Mess'. cclx Acres of Lande and Medowe $\frac{x}{iii}$ Acres of Pasture, More and Turbarie, and a Watermylne, with th' appurtenaunce in Lek aforesaid and halfendele of the Manere of Cauncefeld, with th' appurtenaunce, in the Counte aforesaid, and xii Mes', c and $\frac{xx}{iii}$ Acres of Lande Mede, cc Acres of More, with y'appurtenaunce, in Cauncefeld aforesaid," "which were Richard Tunstall knyght and came to oure hands by the forfeiture of the same Richard Tunstall." A younger branch of the Cantsfields, who were also of Robert Hall, in Tatham, inhabited, in the 17th century, the hall of Cantsfield, now a farm-house belonging to sir John Gerard, bart.; one of the Catholic gentlemen who solicited Charles I., when at York, to avoid civil strife, was John Cansfield, Esq. Mary, the daughter and heiress of sir J. Cansfield, married sir William Gerard, bart., father of the knight of the same name, who was born in 1697. Of Cantsfield, Mr. Holland Watson says, that it "probably had its name from some remarkable battle fought there, and from being most likely the place where Canutus vanquished Uhtred, count or tane of Northumberland. We are told by Cressey, in his Church History, b. 38, c. 31, that Canutus was met by this earl (though he mentions not the place) in order to stop, if possible, his further progress into the north. What makes this opinion more probable is, that there is a large place, adjoining to the town, called the Barrows, where tradition says abundance of men were buried after a battle." From the statement of the Saxon Annalist, it does not appear that Uhtred ever engaged with Canute in Northumberland unless the solitary expression, Ʒ beah ƿa ƿon nyde, (he submitted through necessity,) be considered to imply a battle; and as to the name, it seems to be taken from the little river Cant, or Kant."

* History of The County Palatine and Duchy of Lancaster, by Edward Baines, Esq. M. P. London, 1836, vol. iv, page 613.

ALDINGHAM PARISH.*

Immediately after the Conquest, Aldingham was granted to Michael Flandrensis, or le Fleming, sometimes called Michael de Furness, who is supposed to have accompanied William I., and to have been living so long afterwards as 1153; though a more reasonable conjecture would have been, that there were two persons, father and son, within that space of time, &c.* * * * *

Sir Michael, son of William le Fleming, being drowned in the Leven, and dying without issue, his sister Alice carried the inheritance by marriage into the family of Cancefeld of Cantsfield, in Tunstall parish. She survived her husband, Richard de Cancefeld, and confirmed in her widowhood a grant of land in Thurnham from William, son of Michael de Furness, to the abbey of Cockersand. In an inquisition signed by J. de Curwen, rector of Aldyngham she is named Alina, sister and heir of Michael, and her husband is named John, 1270; and, says the record, the abbot of Furnes demised the manor of Aldyngham to sir Robert Haverington, A.D. 1273, having come to his hands by the death of William, brother of John de Cansfeld. The word "uxor" should probably be read "mater"; for, in the pedigree drawn by the monks of Furness, John is said to be the son of Alina and sir Richard de Cansfeld her husband. Sir Robert Harrington was succeeded by his son John, who, if the preceding dates be correct, was the John de Cauncefeld who, in 13 Edward I., sued the abbot for the manor, which had been seized on account of his minority, and recovered possession, with damages to the amount of £160.

A foot note at this point says—

Placit. Hillar. 13 Edw. I. Min. Rec. Rot. 4. A John de Cancefeld, son and heir of John de Cancefeld, unnoticed by the genealogists, who state the latter to have died without issue, purchased the wardship and marriage of Adam, son and heir of William de Warde, of Bardesey in 1290—"Ego Johannes, filius et hæres Johannis de Cancefeld," &c. Vide West, App. XI. n. 21. Ex. Bibl. Cott. Cleop. E. IV. It does not seem possible to reconcile these discrepancies, and we must follow the track of monkish genealogists, who lived nearer the time, whatever use they made of their materials.

To continue the extract.

There is also a William de Cauncefeld, who, in 20 Edward I., claimed to have free warren, wreck of the sea, weyf, infangenethef, and assize of bread and beer, in his manor of Aldingham. On the trial he produced a charter, of 1 John, to William de Furneys, his grandfather, granting to him and his heirs, sock, sach, toll, theam, infangenethef, trial by iron and water, and by battle, gallows, and all other liberties, except those which belong to the king's crown and sword, paying the king £10 for all services. He also produced another charter, dated 34 Henry III., which granted to William de Furneys and heirs free warren in the manor."

The several liberties above enumerated after a long trial, were separately confirmed by jury. The abbot of Furneys claimed these and other privileges throughout Furneys, excepting the Manor of Aldingham, unless in the case of assize of beer, William de Cauncefeld should sue his tenants in the abbots court.

* History of the County Palatine, etc., vol. iv, page 641.

William de Cancefield the last of the male line, was succeeded by his sister Agnes, who marrying Robert de Harrington of Harrington in Cumberland, constituted him lord of Aldingham. &c.

The following is taken from the collections of Robert Aske, who lived during the reign of Henry VIII.

*[Fo. 57] Pedigree of Fleming, Camefelde, and Haveryngton,
A. D. 1412.

Here followethe the lineall progeny of Mighell Fleming which enfeoffed Ewein, Abbott, of Roos and Crivelton, by eschaunge for Bedersey and Ursewyk, whose progeny ys so derived from hym, as there names here in order dothe followe : of whom ys furste the same Mighel Flemyng, whose son ys William Flemeng, whoson ys Mighel, who sister ys Ellein wyfe of Sir Richarde Camefelde, Knight ; and they had issue John de Camefelde, whose brother ys William de Camefelde, whose sister ys Anneys wyfe of Roberte Haveryngton, which Anneys had issue John de Haverington. &c.

As the early writers spelled proper names phonetically, it is evident that the pronunciation of the original name, Cantsfelde, meaning "field of the Cant," has varied from Cauncefelde and Cansfelde, in the 13th century, to Camefelde in the reign of Henry VIII. This name when spoken can hardly be distinguished from the more modern form Camfield. As will be shown below, the latter name was in use in England during the 16th century.

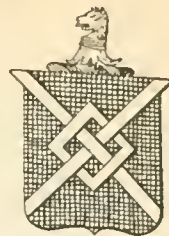

The following family tree† with its coats of arms, clearly indicates the origin of all the coats of arms that have been owned or claimed by the later generations of Camfields and Canfields, whether in Yorkshire and Norfolk, England, or in America. The principal device—the fret—is the same upon them all. And it is proper to note, that here may be the root of the story of James de Philo and his river Cam, in Yorkshire. That part of Lancashire through which the river Cant flows was once a part of Yorkshire. For the same reason this may be the Yorkshire family, which is credited by Burke with the arms (No. 1) shown on page 18.

The following extracts are taken from descriptions of Essex County, England:

* Formerly there were twelve castles, or fortified buildings in this county; [Essex] four of which have been denominated Royal Castles, as built for national security. These are Colchester, Hadleigh, Langard Fort, and Tilbury Fort. The other eight were Castellated mansions; but formed for great strength and security. These were, Canfield and Hedingham, belonging to the De Veres, Earls of Oxford. &c.

† GREAT CANFIELD, or Canfield ad Castrum, as it is sometimes called, attained its latter appellation from a Castle belonging to the De Veres, Earls of Oxford, by one of whom it is generally supposed to have been built: the mount, or keep, still remains, and is planted with trees; the area in which it stands is surrounded by a deep moat, encompassing about two acres. This place, from the similitude of its name, and from its situation being at no great distance from the little river Can, has been thought the ancient Canonium; but apparently on insufficient grounds.

The Can river joins the Chelmer at Chelmsford.

‡ DUNMOW HUNDRED, CANEFIELD. South of Little Easton, and west-south-west of Great Dunmow, lie the two parishes of Great and Little Canfield: The meaning Cane and field is obvious enough. The name is otherwise written in records, Canfeild, Canedfeld, Kaneveles.

A foot note says—

This name might be occasioned by the quantity of Canes or Reeds, growing in the river Rodon, which runs through these two parishes.

Hugh de Vere, Earl of Oxford, who dyed 16 Decemb. 1263, held this maner of Kaneveles of the King in Capite. &c.

In Domesday book, fol. 35. a. Tit. 21, it is given Canefeldam tenet Albericus de Verde Comitē, quod tenuit Eddeva, T. R. E. pro i hida & xxx acris. &c.

In the neighborhood of Great Canfield and Little Canfield are found "Great Canfeild Park," "Canfeild Hall," "Canfeild Marsh farm."

About four miles west of Great Canfield is the border of Hertfordshire, within which county many Camfields and Canfields have lived for centuries. There are good reasons for believing † HARPENDEN. (March 1279) Agnes, widow of Thomas de Canvyle, grants to Roger de Kynnesburne all her lands in Whathamsted, now in the occupation of the said Roger. &c.

The spelling “Canvyle” is as near Canfield as Kynnesburne is to Kingsbourne, both being phonetic spellings.

II. IN AMERICA.

The correct spelling of this surname has long been in controversy among the different branches of the family in America.

Thomas Canfield, Senior, of Milford, Conn., is generally referred to in local histories as Sergeant Thomas Campfield. As none of his autographs can be found, the next best evidence as to the way he spelled his name is the official record of his signature. Many documents are recorded in Milford, and in New Haven, to which he attached his signature, but a careful examination failed to show a single instance where he spelled his name Campfield. The record of his will indicates that he signed that instrument "Thomas Canpheild, Sen'r," which is a phonetic spelling of Canfield.* One record of his signature gives it as "Camfield." With these two exceptions the records give all his signatures as "Canfield."

It makes no difference how other people wrote the name, as he would not be affected by their ignorance. According to the land records in Milford, the public until 1660 wrote the name as he did, after which date his name is spelled "Camfield," 15 times, "Campfield," 17 times, "Campphield," 3 times, and "Canfield" only once. In the Probate Office in New Haven the record of his signature to various legal documents is given nine times. Eight of these are spelled "Canfield." The other, attached to his will, is as given above. In the will of Phebe, widow of Thomas Canfield, Senior, the name is always spelled "Canfield." His son Jeremiah² used the same spelling when signing a deed in 1701. No case has been found where any descendant of Thomas Canfield, Senior, has spelled his name Camfield or Campfield.

Matthew, the traditional brother of Thomas Canfield, Senior, wrote his name Camfield, Camfeild and Camfel. In the Probate Office in New Haven there are two inventories on record, one dated 1648, and the other 1649, both of which are signed "Mathew Camfeild." It is so spelled in the list of signers of the Plantation Covenant, the document which contained the terms of agreement made by the Colonists who located and founded the City of Newark, N. J. The signature to his will is mutilated, but the copy in the ancient official record gives it as Mathew Camfeild.†

His son Ebenezer² signed the same covenant with similar spelling. On a bond dated 5 Jan. 1689 he spelled his name Camfeld.†

* In some of the early records the word "profane" is spelled "prophane."

His will tells us nothing, as he signed with his mark, when he was doubtless too weak to write. All the names in this will are written "Canfield," but his brother Matthew², as one of the witnesses to the signature, signs himself "Mathew Camfeild." * Jonathan², another brother of Ebenezer², made his will in 1685, but signed with his mark; all the names in it are written "Canfield."

Ebenezer's² son, Deacon Joseph³, signed his will with his mark, when he too, was in extremis; and all the names in the will are spelled Canfield, but when the Surrogate probated the will, he wrote the name several times, and always "Camfield." On the monument that once stood in the "Old Burying Ground" on Broad Street, Newark, N. J. was inscribed "Here lyes Interr'd y^e Body of Deacon Joseph Camfield who departed this Life December y^e 14th A. D. 1733 in y^e 52d year of his Age."

Benjamin⁴, the son of Deacon Joseph, signed his will "Benj: Camfield," * and the inscription on his tombstone gave the same name. His brother Abiel⁴ spelled his name in the same manner, as do all of Abiel Camfield's⁴ descendants.

So far we have traced the name of Camfield for four generations, covering a period of more than a century, and have found no deviation in the spelling used by Matthew¹ the Puritan. At about this time (1750) there seems to have been a confusion of names, or a dissatisfaction with the old way of spelling. Perhaps it was caused by Deacon Joseph's³ son Ebenezer⁴, who changed to "Canfield," * while his nephew (Dr. Jabez⁵, son of Benjamin⁴) became a "Campfield." * Be this as it may, the facts as to the line of Deacon Joseph³ are, that the descendants of his son Benjamin⁴ spell the name "Campfield," those of his son Abiel⁴ retain "Camfield," while the progeny of his son Ebenezer⁴ use, without exception, "Canfield," to this day. Going back to Matthew¹ the Puritan, we find that his son Matthew² spelled the name "Camfeild," as stated above, and his name attached to a number of deeds and other documents is spelled the same way (except when he spells it Canfeild and Canfield). His son John³ spelled his name as his father did (sometimes Camfeild or Camfelld), * but John's children, one hundred years after their ancestor Matthew Camfield¹ landed in this country, changed their names to "Campfield," which spelling has been followed by their descendants to the present time, with but few exceptions,—all modern—where the name has been changed to “Canfield.”

With the exception of one family, the head of which was born in New Jersey and is still living, there appears to have been no Campfields nor Camfields living in Connecticut for more than two centuries, and to-day it is safe to say that, whenever these names are found, their owners can trace their ancestry to the New Jersey families.

In view of all these facts it is amusing to read letters, begging the compiler to remember that “Campfield” is the correct name, and that “Canfield should be rejected as it is Irish,” which if true, would not be a good reason. It is easy to see why such an opinion is held. There are people of Irish descent by the name of Canfield, but as far as is known it is a corruption of some good old Irish name, having a similar sound when spoken, or a close resemblance when written. The writer knew a man who went by the name of Patrick Canfield, when living in the vicinity of people of that name, but when he changed his place of residence his name was Patrick Cantwell. Another case was found by the writer; in the directory of a large city the addresses of Bernard Canfield, and Bernard Caufield, were given at the same house: the latter name was the correct one. The bearers of the names Caufield and Caulfield are often called Canfield, much to their indignation.

In this book there is no attempt made to force the members of the family to adopt a uniform mode of spelling, but each name is given exactly as its owner used it or tried to use it.

The pride with which the owners of the longest name proclaim their possession of the “only original” spelling, would be harmless, if it were not for the fact that the variations of the name tend to weaken the bond of kinship. Probably but few changes will be made in the future. The compiler will feel repaid for his labor, if by publishing this book, he helps to perpetuate and impress the fact that we are all of one family.

The following list includes all the different spellings of the name that have been found in the records and histories.

The dates indicate the age of the earliest instance that is known to the compiler. The asterisk marks the spellings that are given in the original or in the recorded copies of autographs; these are not always as old as the dates.

THE ARMS.

It is customary in compiling the genealogy of an American family to say something about the arms and crests that have been borne by its ancestors.

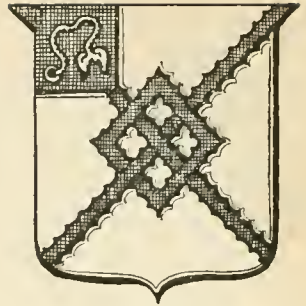

It is evident that any English arms, granted since the departure of the Puritans, can have no interest for their descendants.

Probably no set of men, of their intelligence, has ever lived, who thought less of such honors than they did. Their principal anxiety seemed to be to get as far away as possible from all emblems of rank and worldly pride, resting content with the certain reward, at the end of a hard, life-long struggle to avoid attaining it too soon.

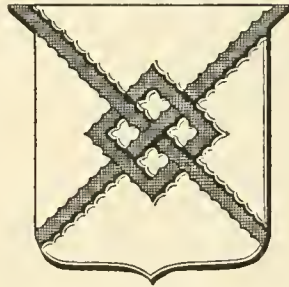

As the English family connections of Thomas Canfield¹, and of Matthew Camfield¹, are not known, it is impossible to say whether they were entitled to bear arms. There is a possibility that they

2. Ar. a fret eng. sa. on a canton of the last a lure of the first.

3. Argent. a fret engrailed, sable.

4. Ar. fretty sa.

5. Crest, An arm erect, couped at the elbow, vested, holding in the hand three wheat ears, ppr.

may have had the right, as it is certain that others of their names had such a privilege. Some one in the future may be fortunate enough to solve this question. It is therefore thought best to show what the English arms are. The illustrations have been carefully prepared from designs and descriptions found in the standard works on Heraldry. Every conceit that could be found is shown. Nothing is known as to the age of these designs, and but little about their English homes. Design No. 1 is attributed to the Yorkshire family, while design No. 3 is said to belong to the Norfolk family. The others have not been located.

It will be noticed that all but one of the designs include the principal device—the fret—that is borne on the arms of the Fleming and Harrington families (see page 11), showing plainly that the Herald's College considered the right of the Canfields or Camfields to bear arms was due to the position that was held by the Cancefield family, as a connecting link between the Fleming and the Harrington families.

No motto is shown on any of the English designs. The motto "Per crucem ad coronam" given by the late Averill B. Canfield on his Family Tree was adopted by him, at the suggestion of a member of the family, who is now living near Philadelphia, Pa.

THE SYSTEM.

As far as can be learned, the system used in this book is new, and it is hoped that it will be found convenient and satisfactory. The annoyance that a reader encounters, when trying to find a description of some individual, in a genealogy that is written on the commoner systems, is very great, if the name sought for happens to be a popular one. It may be necessary to refer from the index to the text a dozen times before the right description is found. This difficulty is avoided in the present system, as the descriptions of persons of the same name are so grouped together, that it is easy to find the one desired. To do this it is necessary to destroy the family groups, but as these are supplied by the charts no loss is sustained.

The descriptions of persons in this book are divided into two groups. The first group contains those who bear the family name and is arranged according to the alphabetical order of the Christian names, which are again arranged according to the number of their generation in America.

The second group includes the names of those who have married into the family, together with the descendants of the daughters who have lost the family name by marriage. These are arranged in alphabetical order according to the surname.

Each descendant, before the ninth generation, is referred to the charts.

The small figures that are attached to many of the names, indicate the number of the generation in America to which the descendant belongs, as for example "Thomas Canfield'" and "Matthew Camfield'" shows that they belong to the first generation.

The charts show the family groups. The generations are placed in vertical columns, and are developed from left to right. Chart 1 shows the first five generations in America, in the line of Thomas Canfield'. Such members of the fifth generation as had children and grand-children have separate charts upon which their descendants are extended to the eighth generation.

When the number of the descendants is too great to be extended on one page, the remainder of the family will be found on the succeeding chart. This is done to avoid large folding charts.

The line of Matthew Camfield' begins on Chart 14.

The names of the children of a family are only given in the biography of the father.

When a name in the alphabetical lists is referred to another name, it indicates that but little is known about the person, or that a child died young, or belongs to a late generation.

This book is not intended as a substitute for the family tree that was compiled by the late Averill B. Canfield. It covers several branches of the family, that he was unable to trace. Of the 1199 names given on the tree, but 41 are duplicated by this book, which includes the names of 941 descendants in the male lines, and 1153 descendants in the female lines, together with more than 450 different and distinct family names with which they are allied.

As it is impossible in a work of this kind to avoid errors and omissions, the compiler will esteem it a favor to receive corrections and additions, so that, if their importance and number should warrant it, a page of errata may be prepared, and distributed among the subscribers.

EXPLANATORY.

To find a name on a chart; first find the number of the chart given at the end of the description of the individual, in the alphabetical lists; then notice the number of the generation as shown by the small figure that is attached to the name. The name will be found on the chart, in the column that includes the other members of that generation. For example "Aaron Canfield⁶" is referred to Chart 4. His name is in the column that is devoted to the sixth generation on that chart.

Ephraim^a. Israel^a. Abraham^a. Abigail^a. Sarah^a. By a deed dated 3 March 1712 (Milford Records vol. 4, page 263) Israel and Abiram sons "of Thomas Canfield late of Milford, deceased" conveyed their interests in their father's estate to their elder brother Thomas for £100. Israel probably left about this time for Newark, N. J. His name is on a jury list in Newark, dated 1715. On 14 March 1721, he was chosen "Overseer of the Poor." On 10 March 1729/30, he was chosen "Fence Viewer." On 14 March 1731/2, he was chosen "Overseer of the Poor." On 13 March 1732/3, he was chosen "Fence Viewer," and again on 11 March 1734/5. He was a prosperous and well-to-do man for his day. He owned a large tract of land in the westerly part of Newark, and also several tracts of meadow land. He had a tannery where he made leather and shoes. He was buried in the Old Burying Ground in Newark, but was removed to the yard of the 1st Pres. Ch., where his headstone is still standing. His will dated 24 April 1744, is in the office of the Secretary of State in Trenton, N. J. Chart 1.

and timber lands in Morris and Sussex Counties, New Jersey. In 1791, he subscribed £25 for Morris Academy Stock. In 1792, with Jacob Losey he built a dam, forge, rolling and slitting mills and a nail factory at Dover, N. J. In 1793, he was one of the managers in charge of the construction of the new Presbyterian Church building in Morristown, N. J. In 1795, he was the senior partner of the firm of Israel & David S. Canfield, merchants in Morristown. In 1799, he was elected Sheriff of Morris County. In 1798, he was one of the original proprietors of the Morris Aqueduct, which he built. In 1801, he was an incorporator of the Morris Turnpike Co. In 1806, he held a similar position in the turnpike company which built the road from Morristown, via Chester, to Easton, Pa. In 1812, he was elected Justice of the Peace. In 1814, he was president of the Morris Fire Company. In 1816, he subscribed $200 to the fund raised to purchase the "Morristown Green" (a park). In 1816, the firm of Canfield & Losey having succumbed to the depression in the iron business that succeeded the "War of 1812," he retired from active business. He lived in Morristown. Buried in the yard of the 1st Pres. Church in that town.

He was a regularly appointed surgeon in the Continental Army, and rose to the rank of Senior Surgeon. He was attached to Spencer's regiment, of the "5th Battalion, Jersey line." He left Morristown, 23 May, 1779, to join Sullivan's expedition against the Seneca Indians, returning 2 Oct. 1779. His diary kept during this campaign has been published by the New Jersey Historical Society. In August 1781, he was transferred to the 2d Regiment Light Dragoons, Connecticut Troops. A sword, which was presented to him by General Lafayette, is in the possession of his great-grand-daughter, Mrs. William S. Rockwell. He was the first Surrogate of Morris County, N. J., filling that office from 1785 to 1803. He was Justice of the Peace from 1795 to 1798. He was the first and the fourth president of the Board of Proprietors of the Morris Academy; and the first librarian of the Morris Library Association. He was an original member of the Society of the Cincinnati; and a "half way" member of the Presbyterian Church in Morristown. He was an incorporator of the New Jersey Medical Society in 1790. He lived in the house now standing on the easterly side of Olyphant Street, near Morris Street, Morristown. He gave his practice to his son, 1 Jan. 1792. He was the first of his line to spell his surname with a "p," an innovation that has been followed by all of his descendants. Buried in the yard of the 1st Pres. Church, Morristown. see page 15.

in the 1st Battalion, Second Establishment, Continental Army. He was also a private in the New Jersey State Militia. There is a tradition in his family that he acted as an aid to Lafayette, by whom he was warmly greeted when the latter was making his farewell visit to Morristown, in 1825. There is no documentary evidence that he was a son of John Campfield⁴, as the latter left no will; but the following circumstantial evidence is so strong that there can be no doubt but that he is correctly placed. 1st, His name was John, a family name, and there was no other child of that name in the family of John Campfield⁴. 2nd, He always lived in the immediate neighborhood with the other members of that family. 3rd, The other families claimed kin with his children. 4th, The date of his birth harmonizes with that family, and there was no other family in all that region to which he could have belonged, as Matthew⁴, the only other Campfield there, did not marry until 25 Oct. 1756. 5th, There is a tradition in the family, that John⁵ and Samuel Campfield⁶ were brothers. A lady who was a member of the household of Samuel Campfield⁶ at the time of his death in 1812, told the person, who told the compiler of this genealogy, that John⁶ and Samuel⁶ were brothers. He is buried in the yard of the 1st Pres. Ch. Morristown.

He had a great many charges. When he became superannuated, he went to Spring Creek, near Curran, Sangamon Co., Ill., where he purchased eighty acres of land and commenced farming and the cultivation of small fruits. He introduced some of the best varieties of fruit from New Jersey, particularly strawberries. He was largely instrumental in the introduction of the Early Rose potato, paying forty-eight dollars a barrel for the seed potatoes; he sold the increase at the market price of the ordinary varieties, as it was his constant desire to aid his fellow man. His last years were spent at Ocean City. Buried at Bargaintown, N. J.

b. in England. d. about June 1673, in Newark, N. J. m. Sarah Treat before 1643. ch. Samuel². Sarah². Mary². Ebenezer². Matthew². Hannah². Rachel². Jonathan². Ruth². He was in † New Haven, Conn. as early as 1639. He † was a member of the Congregational Church in that place in 1642.

The first settlers at New Haven bound themselves and all persons who wished to join the colony, by the following agreement, which is known as the "Oath of Fidelity."

"Whereas there was a fundamentall agreem^t made in a general meeting of all the Free Planters of this towne on the 4th of the fowerth moneth called June namely that church members be free burgesses and they only shall chuse among themselves magistrates and officers to have the power of transacting all publike civill affayrs of this plantatⁿ, of making and repealing lawes, deviding inheritances decideing of differences thatt may arise, and doing all things and busi-nesses of like nature. It was therefore ordered by all the said Free Planters thatt all those thatt hereafter should be received as planters into this Plantation should also submitt to the said fundamentall agreem^t and testifie the same by subscribing their names under the names of the aforesaid planters as aforesaid."

Below the names of the many signers that are copied in the record is a long list of autographs of the planters who signed the agreement later. The last signature is that of Mathew Camfield. This signature is given above in fac simile. It will be noticed that the surname is spelled Camfeld. In the original writing it is easy to see, that the final "d," has been added at a later date, as it is written in an ink, that is very different from that used in the other part of the autograph. He signed this agreement July 1st, 1644.

The following extracts are taken verbatim from the records of the New Haven Colony now in the office of the Town Clerk of New Haven. A few of the unimportant entries have been omitted.

"The Committee appointed to dispose of the absent Lotts mett and upon the request of Mathew Camfield granted to him the home lott w^h was laide out and reserved for Mrs. Eldred upon the conditions following, Viz. That he plant it all w^h fruit Trees except aboutt one Ae^r next the front and that he p^rsently paye for the fence belonging to it as it is now worth being vallewed by indifferent men & to maintayne and keepe it, and if in y^e terme of five yeeres the towne shall see cause to dispose it to any man w^h may be of publike use and benefit to the towne, it is to be at the townes dispose payeing him for his trees and his fence aboute y^e lott as they shall be then worth, being equally vallewed by indifferent men, but if the towne shall not dispose of it to some such man w^hin the terme of 5 yeeres, that then the said Mathew Camfield shall have the lott paying the towne for y^e ground as it is worth being vallewed by indifferent men and that then he shall build a dwelling house upon it comely and fitt for habitation, that so it may not lye as a vacant lott."

"Att a Court held the 6th of Novemb 1644,"

"Mathew Camfield for neglect of his watch was fined 10 s." This appears to have been a common offense among the men who took turns in guarding their property from attacks by the Indians.

"At a Generall Court held at Newhaven the 16th March 1645"

"Brother Abraham Bell & Brother Mathew Camfield were chosen Collect^{rs} for this present yeare, for the gift of Corne to the Colledge, and Wompum was allowed to be paid by those that had not corne to pay in, each pecke of Corne being valued 12^d & 2 o^r 3 months time was allowed for men to bring it in to the Collect^{rs} in"

"At a Gen^l Court held the 4th January 1646"

"It was appoynted that Bro. Anthony Thomson & Bro. Camfield & the 2 deacons speake with Brother Lampson & see what his estate is, & to consider what proportion he is able to beare of the chardge of maynteyning his wife."

At a General Court held the 10th of March 1646 the seating of the congregation in the "Meeting house" was ordered to be recorded. "W^h was as followeth" "First for the mens seats." "Bro. Camfield" and five others occupied the seat No 7 "Secondly for the weomens seates" "G [Goodwife] Camfield" and five others had seat No 8.

On the 17th of May 1647 "viewers for the severall quart^{rs} for this year ensewing" were chosen. "For the Suburbs onn both sides the Creeks Mathew Camfield & Wm. Thompson."

"At a Court held at Newhaven the forth of June 1647."

Richard Osborne having been brought before the Court for saying that certain men had slept on their watches &c., "Rich Osborne added that in a particuler his witsnesse is absent whereby he should have proved a M^r [Watch Master] to have slept & in answer to a question put to him, he said hee did know of this case before he spake in Court w^{ch} was Mathew Camfield who being watchm^r finding fault wth some one of his watchmen said he would not burdin his conscience for any of them. But himselfe after the watch was sett forthwith fell asleep, and then one of the watchmen said to him doe yoⁿ not burdin yo^r conscience wth that, Viz. Sleepinge."

Richard Osborne was fined 40s for his "slanderous reproach."

At a General Court held 5th July 1647 "Bro. Camfield" and eight others were appointed a committee "unto whom all questions concerninge the sheep buisnesse is refferred."

"Richard Osborne who had formerly given publique offence by chardgeing the watchm^rs generally wth disorderly sleepeing neglect of their dutie in their trust committed to them now made acknowledgement of his sinne in so chardgeing them. Whereas he is not able to prove any such miscarriage & perticulerly to justifie himselfe had called Antho : Thompson into court & had chardged Mathew Camfield & Mr. Tuttle wth neglects o^r sleepeing dureing the time they should have bin wakeing & attending their trust, w^{ch} he was not able to prove against any of them w^{ch} did satisfie."

"A Generall Courte held the 14 February 1647"

"Mathew Camfield declared himselfe sorye that he had the last Courte presented the names of sundrye men to be behinde in payement of their College Corne : before he had spoken againe wth them."

"At a Generall Court held the 22th Maye 1648"

Matthew Camfield and two others "were appointed to prise and vaw the Estate of Anthony Tompson deceased."

"A Generall Court held the 9th of October 1648"

"The governor appointed a committee to examine the damage done by swine &c., & to examine the fences & report to the next Court. The Committee chosen are the Court," and nineteen others, among whom was Mathew Camfield.

"A General Court the 20th of November 1648."

"Mathew Camfield came late but the Court passed it by because he was forced to goe looke after some cattle."

On March 10th 1648 the Court appointed "Mathew Camfeild" and nine others a Committee on rates (taxes).

"A Generall Court the 25th June 1649"

Mathew Camfeild was appointed on a committee "for y^e subrerbs on y^e other side of y^e Creeke" to ascertain "what quantity of Corne every man hath sowed or planted this yeere : that he is to be p^d for :"

"At a Court held at Newhaven the 2th of October 1649

"Mathew Camfield was fined for want of some powder last viewing day 12^d. And for not bringing his arms to meeting one Lecture day 2^s 6^d."

"At a Court held at New Haven May 7 1650."

"Matthew Camfield was complained of for absence at a General Court, he said he had lost a beast, and fearing least it should be swamped went to seek it the Court blamed him for not asking leave, but passed it without a Fine."

"At a Court held at New Haven July 2 1650."

"William Basset was complained of for neglecting his watch one night, he said the former Master of the Watch did not warn him. Mathew Camfield said it was his turn to give him warning, and he did give order to his Boy to warn him, himself being to go out of Town to Connecticut but the Boy forgot it yet William Basset knew that it was his night" &c. "The Sentence of the Court is that Mathew Camfield pay a Fine to the Town 2^s. 6^d. and William Basset 5^s."

At a General Court held at New Haven the 10th of March 1650/51

"Mathew Camfield informed the Court that he desired to leave the Town the Lot he had of them which was Mrs. Eldreds and he shall allow the Town what shall be judged meet for the time he hath had it, and desired to leave it after next harvest" &c.

"At a General Court for New Haven held 17 November 1651."

"It was propounded that there might be some men chosen to consider and carry on the Town Affairs that these meetings which spends the Town much time may not be so often, the Court approved the motion and chose one out of each quarter to this work Viz," nine men were appointed, among whom was Mathew Camfield.

"At a Court held at New Haven the first of February 1652." Mathew Camfield conveyed his house, home lot and real estate to Roottern Thompson. This is probably about the time he left the New Haven Colony, and went to Norwalk, as at the General Court for New Haven held the 10th of May 1652 "Samuel Whitehead was chosen Townsman in the room of Mathew Camfield."

He removed to Norwalk in 1652, and remained there fourteen years, during which period he was a man of great prominence in that town and in the Colony of Connecticut. His name appears many times in Vol. I. of the Town Proceedings, which are preserved as early as 9 May 1653. Only the more important entries will be given here. The earliest reference to him is as follows,

"Agreed and voted allso at the aforesaid meeetinge ["desesember the 29th 1653"] that their shall be a good and sufficient pound or pinnefold erected and sett up" &c., "Memorandum: that in regard their is a convenience to have the saied pound made and that with expedition Nath Eli Math Camfeild Nath Richards and Tho Fitch have undertaken to have the said pound made according to the agreement."

In April 1654 the property of "Math Campheild" was valued at £283 10s. which was nearly equal to the richest estate in the town of Norwalk.

On 24 April 1654 Math Camfield Nath Eli and Tho Fitch were appointed a committee on "dreenes" (ditches).

In the register of ear marks for cattle, dated 30 May 1655 it reads "Math Campheild a cropp of the oft eare and twee notches cutt of the under side of the neere eare"

"A list of the names of those inhabitants that are to appeare at Towne Meetinges" dated 20 March 1656 includes "Math Campheild" and 30 others.

On the 6 of December 1657 "Math Camfield" was one of "thes men" who were "chousen to acte thous ocations of the towen that the Courtte hath injoned in Jury."

"At a meeetinge Aprill the 22th 1658"

Math Campheild and six others were "authorized and impowered by these psents to weigh well and seriously to consider about the Land in diferance betweene faierfeild and the Towne" &c.

On Jan. 1st 1656 Math Camfield, Samuel Hall and Richard Olmsted, a committee on fences, signed an order requiring certain fences to be built. The signatures in the record are autographs: that of our subject is given above.

"At a Towne Meetinge August the 27th 1657 the saied meeetinge being Voluntary mett." action was taken towards the erection of "a good sufficient corne mill" &c., Math Campheild and three others "have payed their ption in the mill stones and are freed from their workings."

A lot of rules were laid down to govern the tolls. The minutes were signed on the record by 27 citizens. A fac simile of the autograph of our subject is given above.

On Dec. 4th 1657, "it was voted and agreede that Mathewe Campheild" and four others "are chosen the five Townesmen to act and agitate all such affaiers and occasions as the orders of the Courte authoriseth unto and that for the yeire ensuinge" &c.

On June 14th 1668, Math Campheild and Tho Fitch were ordered to settle with the Indians for "dammages done by the hogges."

On the 16th of Jan. 1659 Mr. Fitch, Goodman Camfield and Goodman Olmstead were chosen to place each inhabitant

"In the Metting house ether higher or Lower acording to his estate rattable to the contrye"

"Mathe Canfell" sat on the fifth bench from the front in the middle tier

On the 16th Jan. 1659 "Mathew Canfeeld" and four others were chosen "for the ordring of fenses and trying of aktions allowed by the ——" [Court?]

"Voted at a meting the 7 of January 61 that Mathew Canfeld & Richard Omsted are to seat men according to the contrye rate & so to continew tell providenc alter mens estate foortye pounds more or less."

"At a Towne meetinge heild the 3rd of July 66" "concerninge the Townes agitations respectinge the boandes in difERENCE with Stamford" &c., it was voted that Mstr Campheild, Leutennant Olmested and Tho. Fitch Sen, should carry a letter to the Town of Stamford. This is the last entry in the "Town Proceedings" about Matthew Camfield. His name appears many times in the Land Records of Norwalk. In Vol. I page 68 is "A true coppie of a decide of sale made by Mathewe Campheild Late of Norwalke unto Samuell Campheild his sonne of Norwalke."

He conveyed all his real estate in Norwalk in consideration of "£80 and three barrells of good cider made of winter fruite to be payed at Norwake" &c.

Dated "1 April 1669 at Neworke"

The records of the Colony of Connecticut* furnish the following additional facts.

On May 18 1654 "Mathu Camphile" of "Norwack" was made free at Hartford by the General Court, which was the legislature of the colony. He represented the town of Norwalk in the General Court almost continuously from 1654 till 1666, during which period the Court assigned many important duties to him. In each of the years 1654-55-56 and 57 he was appointed Assistant Magistrate. In 1658, he was appointed by the General Court to act with others, to prove wills, make inventories, and to distribute estates intestate, and to appoint administrators, in Stratford, Fairfield and Norwalk. On March 9 1658/9 he was made a collector of Customs on all wines and liquors landed at the port of Norwalk, "except those for transportation." In 1659,

* See The Public Records of the Colony of Connecticut prior to the union with the New Haven Colony May 1665. Transcribed by J. Hammond Trumbull, 1850.

he was desired by the General Court to assist Messrs. Wyllis and Allyn to hold court in Fairfield. In 1660, he was chosen and sworn an Assistant Magistrate, and was also appointed with two others to inspect and approve of troopers raised by Fairfield, Stratford, and Norwalk. In 1661, he and three others were appointed to try a special case. In 1664, he was selected for a petitioner to Charles II for the charter of Connecticut. He is named in the charter (1665) that was granted, as one of petitioners and grantees. This connection with that celebrated instrument has given rise to the tradition that he helped to hide the document in the "Charter Oak," a transaction which took place fourteen years after his death. In 1665, he and five others were appointed a committee by the General Court "to discover the approach of the enemy"—the Dutch.

Being dissatisfied with the union of the New Haven and Connecticut colonies, Matthew Camfield with about forty other men with their families formed the first colony that moved from Connecticut to the site of the city of Newark, N. J. in 1666. Here he maintained the respect and esteem of his associates, being constantly chosen to fill positions of responsibility and honor. His is one of the few names found in the early history of Newark, which is honored with the title of "Mr." During the year 1667 he and six others were appointed a committee to adjust values of land in Newark. On 6 Feb. 1667, at a drawing of lots he drew Lot 59, and at a later drawing of meadow lands, he drew Lot 6, and at a subsequent drawing of salt meadow lands, he drew Lot 55. He signed the Branford Agreement 24 June 1667. On 20 May 1668 as one of the agents for Newark, he signed the agreement that settled the location of the division line between Newark and Elizabethtown. On 1 Jan. he was chosen deputy to assist the Magistrate in the Town Courts, and was also appointed on a committee to examine the accounts of the Town Treasurer. On 24 May 1669 he and four others were chosen Townsmen, and 1 Jan. he and two others were chosen Magistrates. On 2 Jan. 1670, he was chosen deputy to assist the Magistrates. His home lot in Newark was on the north west corner of Washington and Market Streets, extending fifteen chains along Washington Street and four chains along Market Street. His will dated 19 March 1672/3 and proven 11 June 1673 is on file in the office of the Secretary of State in Trenton, N. J. Unfortunately the latter part of his surname is worn off, but the ancient official copy in the records gives the signature "Mathew Camfeild." The following is the will as deciphered from the original.

Samuel Camfield², s. Matthew & Sarah (Treat) Camfield. bap. 19 Oct. 1645 in New Haven. d. Oct. 1690. m. Elizabeth Willoughby. ch. Ebenezer³ (b. 14 Feb. 1670). Abigail³ (b. April 1673). Matthew³. Samuel³ (b. May 1679. d. Sept. 1712). Jedediah³ (b. Aug. 1681). He went from New Haven to Norwalk, Conn., with his father in 1652, and there is evidence that he accompanied his father to Newark, N. J. in 1666, as he was awarded a home lot on the south west corner of Market and Washington Streets, 6 chains along the former and 10 chains along the latter street. If he was in Newark, he did not remain there long, as his name appears in the early records of Norwalk, where "Samewell Camfeld" signed an agreement 19 Feb. 1668. A deed is on record in Newark, dated 6 June 1673, from Samuel Camfield of Norwalk, Conn., to the overseers of the estate of his father, for his brothers Ebenezer and Matthew "Canfield" of "Neworke." It was signed "Samuel Canfield," and witnessed by Thomas Luddinton and John Browne, both of whom were residents of Newark. This deed is interesting as proof that he was in Newark at that time. The fact that he was not made a Freeman of Norwalk until 14 Oct. 1669, when he was twenty-four years of age, is evidence that he had been out of the colony of Connecticut. The evidence of the earliest records at Norwalk is conclusive that he wrote his name "Samuell Camfeld," but as he grew older he changed it to "Camfeild" or "Camfield." His descendants spell their surname Canfield. His line will not be followed in this genealogy. Chart 14.

No data exist concerning this man. His brother Timothy told David Cooper of Rockaway, N. J., who told the compiler, that Samuel Canfield was a prisoner (in Philadelphia, Pa., during some period of the American Revolution), in the hands of the British, by whom he was so badly treated and so starved, that when he was released he ate grass, and died. Chart 1.

Thomas Canfield¹.

b. in England. d. in Milford, Conn. between 23 Feb. 1687/8 and 22 Aug. 1689. m. Phebe Crane of Wethersfield, Conn. probably before 1650. 9 ch. Sarah². Phebe². Mary². Elizabeth². Thomas². Jeremiah². Abigail². Hannah². Mehetabel². According to tradition he was a brother of Matthew Canfield¹ and Nathaniel Canfield.

The town of Milford was settled in 1639, by men from Wethersfield and New Haven. In the early records of the town are the entries.

"A Generall Court at Milford December 31th, 1646."

"Ordered that Thomas Canfield, Thomas hine, Henry Lyon, Have house
"lotts and 2 acres of Meadow apeece granted Them."

Also

"A Generall Court at Milford, January 31th, 1647."

"[Thom]as Canfield and Thomas Ford shall have [their second d]ivision "together with their quarter division [at a place] where it is not Sized on the "South side of the [Highway] which goeth to the new meadow"

(The parts in brackets are missing, but are supplied from an old copy of the record.) These are the earliest records of Thomas Canfield that have been found.* They prove that he was in Milford as early as the year 1646. He may have come from Wethersfield by the way of New Haven, as there is a tradition that he was in both of these places.

The following extracts from the Milford records may be of interest. The Church records state that Thomas Campfield was added to the Church 1 March 1656.

In the records of the town are found these items.

"Towne Meeting January 12 1659—"

"Thomas Canfield concerning his lott in the plains hath Liberty granted unto him to alter his stakes, namely to Lay downe some part of his lott that is full of wood at the one end of his lott and to take it up at the other end of his lott."

* The "Oath of Fidelity" as written in 1639, together with the names of the earliest signers, was copied prior to July 1644 in the records that are now in the office of the Town Clerk in New Haven. Among the copied signatures is that of Tho: Coefield, but as this name is not found elsewhere in the early records of the colony it must have been intended for Tho: Canfield, as no other name that could have been mistaken for Coefield appears in any of the records of that period. This oath is given in full on page 86.

"Generall Court. Held at Milford, March 19th 1659 or 60."

"Item. Henry Botsford. John Beard. Thomas Ford. John Smith And Thomas Canfield these five men have liberty to have halfe their division of Land in that shot against their own Lotts as they desired and haveing agreed to cast lotts, and to begin at the New meadow path it fell out that,

Thomas Canfield is to y^e first lott

Henry Botsford the 2

John Beard the 3

John Smith the 4

Thomas Ford the 5 "

"A Town Meeting held y^e ninth of January Anno 1660"

"Thomas Booth hath five acres of Land granted him in a parcell of Swamp Land lying near Tho. Campfield's lott on this side the new meadow hill if the place will admitt so much without prejudice to highways & John Smith Thomas Ford Thomas Campfield are chosen to lay out the highways that doe border upon this land."

This is the first entry in this record in which the spelling of Thomas Canfield's name is changed. In the record of other lots of land received after January 1660, he is recorded as Thomas Camfield, Thomas Camphield and Thomas Campfield. In the records of lands of other people there are many references to the lands of Thomas Canfield—Camfield—Camphield and Campfield. The first spelling is the oldest, while the second and fourth are of about equal frequency.

A report of a committee appointed to lay out lands for John Fisk, concludes with these words :

"witness our hands this twelfth of January 1682. Silvanus Baldwin. Thomas Camfield. Jobamah Gunn."

This is the only instance that has been found where the record indicates that he wrote his name with an "m."

In the same record is found—without date—this entry :

"Serg^t Thomas Campfield hath given him by the town four acres of Land for which he is to maintaine a gate att NewField, being bounded with Ens^a Streame East. Capt. Beard South, a highway West and Serg^t Tibbals North."

The following facts are taken from "The Public Records of the Colony of Connecticut," &c.*

"At a Court of Election held at Hartford May 13 1669"

"This Court confirms Thomas Campfeild and Samuel Eeles Sarjeants of the Traine Band of Milford."

* Transcribed by J. Hammond Trumbull, 1850.

The Court of Election or the General Court was the legislature of the colony. Thomas Canfield represented the town of Milford in the General Courts held at Hartford, 9 Oct. 1673, 26 Nov. 1673, May and 8 Oct. 1674 and 12 Oct. 1676.

In the list of Freemen of the several towns of Connecticut, dated October 1669, under the head of Milford is the name of "Thomas Camppheild."

In the records of the Probate Office in New Haven there are many references to Thomas Canfield.

In an "Inventory of the estate of Robert Preston, late of New-haven, deceased, made the 2d day of the 4th month 1648" "Thom. Campfield of Milford," is a creditor to the amount of fourteen shillings and sixpence. This is the only instance of this spelling that has been found in these records.

"Thomas Canfield" witnessed the will of John Northrup, senior 6 Sept. 1669.

He assisted in making an inventory of the estate of Elizabeth Ford, 10 Nov. 1673, also of the estate of Samuel Baldwin, 21 Feb. 1673, and of the estate of Isaac Joy 11 Oct. 1674. He witnessed the will, and a codicil, of Mary Lane, in which he was made an overseer of the estate. This document is not dated, but the inventory of her estate is dated 22 Feb. 1680. He witnessed the will of Mary Northrup 24 Jan. 1683. All of these, with several other recorded copies of his signature, give the spelling "Canfield."

As the original will cannot be found the following is taken from the record in the Probate Office in New Haven. In Probate Records, Vol. 2, page 303, it reads.

"I Thomas Canphield Senior of Milford in the County of New haven being of sound memorie doe leave this as a memorandum not knowing y^t anything else may be don in maner & form as followth. The date of probate is not given.

The signature to this will is the only one on record where he used this peculiar spelling. The record is clear and distinct, and it is not possible to read the signature "Thomas Campfield Serg^t" as has been done, except by wilful alteration. see page 14.

This Inventory taken & apprizd by us

Thomas Tibballs

Some of this estate above written apprizd by information

Daniel Baldwin

This schedule has been frequently referred to as an inventory of the estate of Thomas Canfield, Senior, but the item "half the old house & homestead that were his father's" proves that the property belonged to his son Thomas².

Hinman fell into this error and stated that Thomas Canfield lived until 1711, citing as proof, the deed, dated 3 March 1712, (Vol. 4 page 263, Milford records,) which reads

"To all people to whom these presents shall come know ye that we Israel Canfield and Abiram or as comonly called Abiel Canfield son of Thomas Canfield late of Milford deceased, in the County of New Haven in her Maj^{ties} Colony of Connecticut in New England, for and in Consideration of y^e sum of one hundred pounds to us in hand well and truly paid by our elder brother "Thomas Canfield" &c.

In a deed dated 26 June 1701 (Vol. 3. page 342, Milford records) from Jeremiah Canfield to Eleazar Prindle, it is stated that the grantor acting as executor under the will of "my honoured father Thomas Canfield," is forced to sell lands of the estate to raise money with which to pay legacies. No reference is made to Thomas Canfield², who by the terms of the will was to act with his brother.

In the will of Phebe Canfield, the widow of Thomas Canfield Senior, dated 28 July 1690, all of her children are named excepting Thomas², who being dead, his son Thomas³ received a small legacy. The records of the First Church of Milford, state that Abiram son of sister Rebeckah Canfield was baptised 5 Jan. 1689: a note says "born after fathers death." The evidence is conclusive that Thomas Canfield² died in 1689.

He was probably buried in Milford. His son Israel went to Newark, N. J. about 1714, and became the ancestor of a large branch of the family in that state. Chart 1.

APPENDIX.

Unidentified Families.

Ambrose Canfield joined the Presbyterian Church in Caldwell, N. J., 2 April, 1797. This is the first record of him that has been found. The names of his parents are not known, but the tradition in the family is that his father came from "Yankee land," served in the American army, and was imprisoned by the British in New York. His mother was a sister of the wife of the Rev. Stephen Grover, of Tolland, Conn., who for many years was the pastor of the Caldwell church. She m. 2, ——— Norris, (?) and removed to a place near Geneva, N. Y. Ambrose Canfield probably came from Connecticut. Carpenter. In 1809 he removed to Geneva, N. Y., and returned to Caldwell in 1812. In 1822, he removed to Columbus (?), Ohio, with two sons and four daughters, and died there. He visited Caldwell in 1835.

William Henry m. 2, Dorcas Stagg 16 Aug. 1828. 1 ch. WESLEY (b. 1 May 1840. n. m. He enlisted in the Union army, went to Buffalo, N. Y., and to Australia). He was a fuller. Born and lived and died in Caldwell.

Stephen Whelock, bap. 22 March 1802. m. near Pittsfield, Mass. Removed to Ohio with his father.

James. Married in Ohio. Eliza, Caroline, Maria and Sarah went to Ohio.

Israel Canfield was born near Elizabeth, N. J., 6th July 1776, and died at Ossian, N. Y., in 1854. His father, who was a recruiting officer in the American army, died so early that he never saw his child. He owned 300 acres of land near Elizabeth. Israel's mother m. 2, ——— Miller, who persuaded her to sell her land and remove to Pittsford, N. Y., where her son married and had a large family. It is difficult to reconcile this tradition with the conditions that are known to have existed, but the probabilities are that Israel was the son of Benjamin Canfield³, of Orange, N. J., who died before Sept. 1776, at Trenton, as he was the only Canfield who is known to have died in the army at so early a date. Orange is only six miles from Elizabeth, and Benjamin's ancestors were the only Canfields that held large tracts of land in that region.

James Canfield, of Malapardis, N. J., d. about 1836, in Newark, N. J. m. Electa Mulford 13 March 1804, at Hanover, N. J., and had children, Jehiel Ross, James Wood, Jacob Vail, Christopher Mulford, Melancthon, Elizabeth D. He had a mill at Malapardis. He is said to have been a literary man, and to have lived in Newark for many years. He has been confounded with James Caldwell Canfield*, who was born 14 Jan. 1790. It is said that none of his sons married, but the James W. Canfield, who married Sarah Ann Lawrence, 15 Aug. 1839, in Newark, was probably a son.

Jehiel Ross, bap. 5 Jan. 1809, at Hanover. n. m. He was well educated. He went to Mexico as a teacher. Supposed to have been killed there.

James Wood, bap. 5 Jan. 1809, at Hanover. He was a grocer in Newark, from 1835 to 1846. He died in Newark.

The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem. It is shown that the problem is of great importance in the theory of functions of a complex variable. The second part contains a detailed proof of the theorem. The third part is devoted to some applications of the theorem.
 The fourth part contains some remarks and references.
